in mind that the Shelby College Lotteries of

AYER'S CHERRY
PECTORAL,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Colds, Coughs, and Hoarseness.

BREKIDEN, Mass., 20th Dec, 1855.
Dr. J. C. Ayer: I do not hesitate to say the best remedy I have ever found for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, is your CHERRY PECTORAL. It is constant use in my practice and my family for the last two years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. EDWARD KNIGHT, M. D.

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.
Salem, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.
Brother Ayer: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy we possess for the cure of whooping cough, croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to our people. HIRSHAM CONNELL, M. D.

AMOS LEE, Esq., MONTICELLO, Va., writes, 3d Jan, 1856:
"I had a tedious Influenza, which confined me in doors six weeks; took many medicines without relief; finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs;
less than one half the bottle made me completely well.
Four medicines are the cheapest and the best we can
buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies,
as the poor man's friend."

Asthma or Phthisis, and Bronchitis.
Salem, Mass., Feb. 7, 1856.
Six: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in this section. It has relieved several from alarming symptoms of Consumption, and is curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PARKS, Merchant.

A. A. RAMSEY, M. D., ALBION, Monroe Co., Iowa, Sept. 5, 1855. "During my practice of nearly twenty years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for giving ease and relief to consumptive patients, or curing croup and whooping cough in children."

We might add volumes of evidence, but the most convincing proof of the virtues of this remedy is found in the effects upon trial.

Probably no one remedy ever been known which cured so many and such dangerous cases as this. Some no human aid can reach; but even to those the Cherry Pectoral affords relief and comfort.

Astoria House, New York City, March 5, 1856.
Doctors: I feel it a duty and a pleasure to inform you what your Cherry Pectoral has done for my wife. She had been five months laboring under the dangerous symptoms of Consumption, from which no doctor could procure her much relief. She was steadily failing, until Dr. Strong, of this city, where we have come for advice, recommended a trial of your Cherry Pectoral.
Four medicines are the cheapest and the best we can
buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies,
as the poor man's friend."

OLANDO SHELLEY, OF SHELBYVILLE.
Consumptions, do not despair till you have tried AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is made by one of the best medical chemists in the world, and its cure is almost guaranteed. The high merits of its virtues. - Philadelphia Ledger.

Ayer's Cathartic Pills.
THE science of Chemistry and Medicine have been taught to produce the best, most pure, and most purge which is known to man. Innumerable proofs are shown that these PILLS have virtues which surpass in excellence the ordinary medicines, and that they are unprecedented upon the system of all men. They are safe and pleasant to take, but powerful to cure. Their preparing properties stimulate the vital action of the body, remove the obstructions of its organs, purify the blood, and expel disease. They purge out the foul humors which breed and grow stupor, stimulate sluggish or disordered organs into their natural action, and impart health and strength to the whole system. Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also formidable and dangerous diseases that have baffled the best of human skill. While they produce powerful effects, they are at the same time, in diminished doses, the safest and best purgative that can be used for children.
They are pleasant to take; and being entirely vegetable, are free from any risk of harm. Cures have been made which surpass belief and were not substantiated by men of such exalted position and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Many eminent clergymen and physicians have lent their names to certify to the public the reliability of my remedies, while others have sent me the assurance of their conviction that my Preparations contribute immensely to the relief of my afflicted, suffering fellow-men.

The Agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis my American Almanac containing directions for their use and certificates of their cures, of the following complaints:-
Constipation, Bilious Complaints, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Hemorrhoids, Headache arising from a full stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Stomachic Disorders, Flatulency, and Pain arising therefrom, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, all Diseases and Catarrhs of the Bowels which require an evacuant, and the blood and stimulating the system, cure many complaints which it would not be supposed they could reach, such as Dyspepsia, Pains in the Head, Neuralgia and Nervous Irritability, Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys, Gout, and other kindred complaints arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

Do not be put off by unprincipled dealers who offer you a pill that makes more profit on Ayer's PILLS than they make on the whole. Ask for AYER'S PILLS, and take nothing else. No other can give you the same results in its intrinsic value or curative powers. The sick want the best and there is for them, and they should have it.

LOUISVILLE ELECTION.—GLOBIOUS NEWS.—We have no full returns from Louisville, but a dispatch received says that the race is very close with a strong probability that the Democratic county candidates are elected. At any rate there is a falling off of the Plug Ugly votes in the city of from 600 to 1000. This is glory enough for one day.

We regret to learn that Capt. LOVELL ROUSSEAU and Dr. STANFORD were killed in a fight with each other.

HERMAN BOWMAN, Dem., is probably elected Clerk of County Court in Woodford.

THE K. N's have elected their ticket in Fayette.

A BLOODY TRAGEDY.—THREE MEN BUTCHERED.—On Monday last, at a barbecue in Madison Co., Kentucky, near Rockcastle, Mr. MOORE, the Constable, summoned Messrs. ROBERTS, MULLIN, JONES and brother to help him arrest two Hayleys; they resisted, killing the constable and the brothers JONES, and wounding MULLIN who is not expected to live, and ROBERTS, who is slightly wounded in the hand. One of the JONES, after he had been cut across the stomach, told them he could not live, but one of them held him by the head while the other cut his head nearly off, leaving but a small particle holding the head and body together. The weapons used were Bowie-knives. The murderers escaped, and the people around the country are after them. Mr. MOORE was a very clever man, and liked by all who knew him. One of the murders has since been arrested.

GOV. STEVENS AND THE NEW GOLD FIELDS.—Governor STEVENS, of the Washington Territory, has written a long letter to the Secretary of War, in which he complains bitterly of the exactions made by the British authorities upon such American citizens as may seem disposed to penetrate the new gold regions. He says that the proclamations that have been made by the Hudson Bay Company are without any legal or binding authority, and should not be respected by the citizens and Government of the United States.

JAS. P. GAY'S TRIAL.—CLARKE.—The trial of Jas. P. Gay in the Clarke Circuit Court commenced on Tuesday last and on Saturday the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. Five lawyers appeared for the prosecution, and nine for the accused. A great crowd attended the trial and heartily cheered when the verdict was rendered. Our readers will remember that about a year since Mrs. Jas. Price published a romance in the Ohio Farmer in which the real characters were Jas. P. Gay and wife. Shortly after a difficulty occurred between Gay and Jas. Price and son, in which the son was killed and the father badly wounded.—Paris (Ky.) Flag.

THE Hartford Free Press gives the following synopsis of a case which occurred at Bristol, Connecticut:

"A man, calling himself Smith, went to bed and wanted his bed room door left open. His wife thought the weather cool enough to shut it. She went to bed an hour after, but before the dispute was settled he pinched her. They both went to sleep, and the next day she went home to her father. She complained to the grand jury, and Smith was fined $6 and costs. Smith appealed to the Superior Court. His defense was that she threw her leg this way and hit a nail from which he was suffering, and that he merely struck out to save himself. Two lawyers on each side were engaged.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.—SUSPECTED MURDER.—On the morning of the 17th instant, the clothes of C. B. Hall, of Louisville Ky., were found on the bank of the river at Jefferson City. Hall was seen at 11 o'clock of the previous night, with another person, going to the river to bathe. It is supposed that he was murdered; and his body thrown into the stream. He was aged about nineteen years. A considerable amount of money and a watch, which he is known to have had, are missing. Five hundred dollars reward is offered for the recovery of the body, and the for the arrest of the murderer.—St. Louis Democrat.

The End of a Woman's Caprice.

A LOVE STORY.

"Men are never so awkward, never so ungraceful, never so disagreeable, as when they are making love. A friend is a luxury, a husband a duty, I suppose; but that intermittent class of human beings denominated 'lovers' are terrible bores. It does very well for women to blush and look distressed now and then, when occasion makes it desirable; but to see a man with his face as red as a ripe cherry, and a real parcel of strong mindedness, self-reliance and masculine dignity, done up in broadcloth and starched linen, quaking from the toe of his boot to the top of his shirt collar, his mouth awry, and his tongue twisted into convulsions, in the vain attempt to say something sweet—O gracious!"

So said snappy Sophie Lynn aloud to herself, as she set swinging backwards and forwards before the twilight, half buried in the cushions of a luxurious arm-chair, and with a delicate irony which lay upon her lips.

"It all seems so strange, not to say funny," she continued, with a rumbling, musical laugh, "after one has waited and quaked poetry and talked nonsense, with any body till one is puzzled to know which one of the two is most heartless, one's self or one's companion, to hear him come down plump on the subject of matrimony, as though that was the legitimate result of every such insipid acquaintance? For my part I never had a lover (here Sophie fluttered her fan and looked pleased, for she had more than one) that I wasn't sick of after he proposed. There was Capt. Morris—I thought him the handsomest man in the whole circle of my acquaintance, until he went on his knees to me and swore he should die if I didn't take pity on him. Somehow he always looked like a fright to me afterwards. I then there was Dr. Wilkins—he was really agreeable, and people said very learned. I was delighted with him for a time; but he spoiled it all with that offer of his—what long winded adjectives! as if the poor fellow had not perceived, long ago, that he was an 'adorable creature,' and hiccoughed in the middle of 'adorable.' Horrors! I have hated him ever since. Then there was a—"

Here Sophie started. She heard the door bell ring. With a nervous spring she stood before her mirror, smoothing down her brown hair with a taste fully comical.

"It won't do to seem interested," she said, as she took a finishing survey of her person in the glass and shook out, with her plump, jeweled fingers, the folds of her airy muslin dress.

The moment afterwards, when a servant entered to announce Mr. Harry Ainslee, she was back to her old seat by the window, rocking and playing with her fan, apparently as unconcerned and listless as though that name had not sent a quicker thrill to her heart, or the betraying crimson all over her face. "Tell him I will be down presently," she said.

The girl disappeared and Sophie flung open the window, that the cool fresh air might fan away the extra rosininess from her complexion. Then she went again to the mirror, and after composing her bright eager, happy face into an expression of demureness, she descended to the parlor. A maid broke over her features, and she reached out both hands to the guest; but as it suddenly recollecting herself, she drew them back again, and with a formal bow of recognition she passed him and seated herself in a further corner of the room.

It was very evident that something was wrong with Sophie; that she had made up her mind either not to be pleased, or not to please. Could it be that she had forgotten what she was coming for? That a presentiment of that visit and its result had dictated the merry speeches in her chamber? He that it may be, if a hour had not elapsed before Harry Ainslee's hand and fortune, (which latter by-the-way, was nothing wonderful,) were in the same place where Capt. Morris and Dr. Wilkins had been before him.

"The first man that I ever heard say such things without making a fool of himself," muttered Sophie emphatically from behind her fan, as she sat blushing and evidently gratified, yet without deigning any reply to the gallant straightforward speech in which her lover had risked his all of hope.

"He ought to do penance for the pretty way he managed his tongue, and to get down on his knees to me," said Sophie, looking up and smiling to herself, as she held her fan before her face. "And Sophie should her curly head meaningly, holding her fan before her face, as if she forgot what she had been saying. 'I wonder if I could save the way old Uncle Jones used to be in church?' she soliloquized. 'Wouldn't it be fun? and wouldn't it plague Harry if he thought I had been asleep while he was talking?' Sophie's little eyes twinkled with suppressed merriment as she gave two or three heavy breathings, and followed them up with a nasal explosion worthy of an orthodox deacon. It was well done—and theatrically done—and poor Harry sprang bolt upright—surprised, mortified, chagrined. Human nature could stand it no longer, and Sophie gave vent to her mirth in a burst of triumphant laughter.

"You little witch—you mischief—you spirit of evil!" exclaimed the relieved Harry, as he sprang to her side and caught her by the arm with a grip that made her scream. "You deserve a shaking for your behavior!" Then lowering his voice, he added gravely:

"Will you never have done tormenting me? If you love me, can you not be generous enough to tell me so and so, and let me go, and let me at least work up a candid letter?"

Words sprang to Sophie's lips that would have done credit to her womanly nature, and made her lover's heart bound with rapture, for the whole depths of her being were stirred and drawn towards him as they never had been towards any man.

But she could not quite give up her raillery then. She would go down to her room, and she said and in his hand and told him he was dearer than all the world besides. So she checked the tender response that trembled on her tongue and flinging off his grasp, with a mocking gesture and a ringing laugh, danced across the room to the piano.

She seated herself, she ran her fingers gracefully over the keys, and broke out in a wild, brilliant, sonorous song, and made her listener's ears tingle as he stood watching her, and chinking back the indignant words that came crowding to his lips for utterance.

"Sophie, listen to me!" he said at length, as he paused from sheer exhaustion. "Is it generous—it is just, to trifle with me so? to turn into ridicule the emotion of a heart that offers to you the most reverent affections?"

"I have loved you, because beneath this volatile surface character of yours, I thought I saw truthfulness and simplicity, purity of soul, and a warm current of tender, womanly feelings, that would bathe with blessings the whole life of the man whose hand was so fortunate as to touch its secret springs. You are an heiress, and I only a poor student; but if that is the reason why you treat me so scornfully, you are less the noble woman than I thought you."

Sophie's head was averted, and a suspicious moisture glistened in her eyes as Harry ceased speaking. Ah! why is it that we sometimes hold our highest happiness so lightly—carrying it carelessly in our hands as though it were but dross, staking it all upon an idle caprice!

When she turned her countenance towards him again, the same mocking light was in her eyes, the same coquettish smile breathed from her red lips. "Speaking of bridesmaids," said Sophie, "there's Helen Myrtle, whose father is worth twice as much as mine. Perhaps you had better transfer your attention to her. Mr. Ainslee. The difference in our dowries would no doubt be quite an inducement and possibly—she might consider your case more seriously than I have done."

Like an insulted prince, Harry Ainslee stood before her the hot, fiery, indignant blood dashed in a fierce torrent over his face—his arms crossed tightly upon his breast, as if to keep his heart from bursting with uprising indignation—his compressed lips, and his dark eyes flashing. Sophie, cool and smiling, looked on, and heaved a sigh of relief, as she saw that she had not been deceived in her case more seriously than I have done."

Not till he had gone—gone without a single word of expostulation, leaving only a grave "good by," and the memory of his pale face to plead for him, did the indignation of Sophie subside into a realization of what she had done. Then, a quick terrible fear shot through her heart, and she would have given every curl on her brown head to have had him beside her one short moment longer.</

The Naturalization Laws.
For the information of our readers, and also for officers of the coming August elections, we publish below the opinion of the Court of Appeals, delivered by Judge Simpson at the last session of the Court, in a case brought by appeal from the Fayette Circuit Court. It will be seen that the court fully sustains the position taken by the entire Democratic press and a number of eminent legal gentlemen of the State, and is adverse to the opinion of the Attorney General, by which thousands of foreigners were refused the privilege of voting at the last election. The entire opinion is too long for our columns, but the abstract which we publish, furnishes all that is material in the case.

NATURALIZATION LAWS.

ABSTRACT OF THE OPINION OF THE COURT OF APPEALS, IN THE CASE OF MORAN v. DUNN, AS APPEALED FROM THE FAYETTE CIRCUIT COURT.
FROM THE FORTHCOMING VOLUME OF B. MONROE'S REPORTS.

1. No judicial officer, however low his grade as such, is liable to suit for a judicial opinion, however erroneous it may be, if it is not influenced by improper motives. (4 Bibb, 28.)

2. No action can be maintained against the "judges of elections, whose functions are to some extent judicial, for refusing to receive a vote, without allegation and proof that they were influenced by bad motives, and decided contrary to their honest convictions as to what was right and proper."

3. A sheriff, whose duty it is to decide on the qualification of voters when the two judges disagree in regard to the qualification of voters, acts judicially.

4. The allegation in a petition against a sheriff who refused to permit the plaintiff to vote when he had a right to vote, "that the deponent knowingly and wilfully, with an unlawful intention, refused to receive the plaintiff's vote," shows a good cause for action.

5. The act of naturalization, as it is required to be performed by the act of Congress, is a judicial act. (Spratt v. Spratt 4 Peters, 433.) and Congress cannot authoritatively confer jurisdiction on State courts, or compel its exercise. (Huston v. Monroe, 5 Wheaton, 27.) which was a criminal case. (Harney v. Sharp, 1 Dana, 442.)

6. The authorities on the subject of jurisdiction, conferred on State courts by Congress, seem to be "that in judicial matters, the concurrent jurisdiction of the State courts depends upon the pleasure of Congress in every case in which the subject matter can constitutionally be made cognizable in the Federal courts, and that the State courts will, in civil cases, unless prohibited, retain a concurrent jurisdiction in all cases where they had jurisdiction over the subject matter." (1 Vol. Kent's Com., side page 400.)

7. Although Congress cannot compel State courts to exercise jurisdiction which may confer, and for the performance of which they have an adequate inherent jurisdiction, yet if the State courts do exercise the power, it is a valid act.

8. Every Court of Record, whether of a State or of the United States, having common law jurisdiction, is fully competent to perform every act which is necessary to be done in the process of naturalization, as State courts may authorize the officers of other State courts to do certain acts, as taking depositions, etc., which, when done in conformity with the power conferred, is valid.

9. The fact that State courts have for a long period of time exercised the power of naturalization, is a strong argument in favor of its exercise, especially as its legality has been repeatedly recognized. (Campbell v. Gordon and wife, 6 Grant 176; Stark v. Chesapeake Ins. Co., 7 Cranch 470.) in which cases naturalization was adjudged to be citizens. (5 Leigh 74; 1 Hill 141; 18 Barbour 441; 5 English's Ark. Rep. 62.)

10. Such State courts are designated by the act of Congress, have the power to naturalize foreigners under that act of Congress, and are so recognized by our Revised Statutes, page 172.

11. The Lexington city court being a court of record, having a clerk and seal, and being vested with a limited common law jurisdiction, has authority to admit aliens to citizenship.

12. Foreigners who have resided in the State, county, and precinct the length of time required by the Constitution, are entitled to vote immediately upon being naturalized.

The case of Canfield v. Bullock decides the same principle.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.
FOR THE RAPID CURE OF Coughs, Croup, and Hoarseness.

BENJAMIN, MASS., 20th Dec. 1856.
DR. J. C. AYER: I do not hesitate to say that I have used your Cherry Pectoral for Coughs, Hoarseness, Influenza, and the concomitant symptoms of a Cold, in your Cherry Pectoral. Its constant use in my practice and my family for the last ten years has shown it to possess superior virtues for the treatment of these complaints. E. E. KNIGHT, M.D.

A. B. MORTLEY, Esq., of Uxbridge, N. Y., writes: "I have used your Cherry Pectoral in my family ever since you invented it, and believe it the best medicine for its purpose ever put out. With a cold I should sooner pay twenty-five dollars for a bottle than do without it, or take any other remedy." E. E. KNIGHT, M.D.

Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza.
SPRINGFIELD, MASS., Feb. 7, 1856.
BROTHER AYER: I will cheerfully certify your Pectoral is the best remedy for the cure of whooping cough, croup, and the chest diseases of children. We of your fraternity in the South appreciate your skill, and commend your medicine to those who are afflicted with these complaints. HIRSH CONKLIN, M.D.

"AMOS LEE, Esq., of MONROE, LA., writes, Jan. 30, 1856: "I had a tedious influenza, which continued me in dooms six weeks, took many medicines without relief, finally tried your Pectoral by the advice of our clergyman. The first dose relieved the soreness in my throat and lungs; less than one half the bottle made me completely well. Your medicines are the cheapest as well as the best we can buy, and we esteem you, Doctor, and your remedies, as the poor man's friend." A. B. MORTLEY, Esq.

Asthma or Phthisis, and Bronchitis.
WEST MANCHESTER, PA., Feb. 4, 1856.
SIR: Your Cherry Pectoral is performing marvellous cures in the case of consumption, and is now curing a man who has labored under an affection of the lungs for the last forty years. HENRY L. PERRY, Merchant.

A. RAMSEY, M.D., of ALABAMA, writes, March 1, 1856: "During my practice of many years I have found nothing equal to your Cherry Pectoral for the cure of consumption, and it pleases his best efforts to give entire satisfaction." J. B. WASSON.
